

RIGS FOR THE CAMP

Becoming Attire for Lake, Wood and Mountain

NOW IS THE TIME TO PREPARE

Mannish Modes Are Quite the Proper Cape this Season—How to Pack and Get Ready.

Turkey blouses in the girl who is going out camping this year. What a joy in itself to be able to fill her lungs with unadorned fresh air, and to have her complexion and get acquainted with nature, genuinely acquainted. A good deal of her joy, however, will depend upon her comfort, and as an experienced camper, she will not so much as speak of her delightful associations and happy memories to tell her a few things she may find worth while.

In the first place, my dear girl, where are you going? The sort of climate you are going into would affect your outfit naturally, though there are some general rules, sort of camp axioms, which might apply almost anywhere. If you are to cut the proper cape and keep within at least certain of the effects of fashion, if you are to be correctly equipped, don't you let any one beguile you into getting yourself up in tennis or outing flannels. To be sure, this year's array of killing little dots and stripes NEW CAMPING GOWN, in the soft, floppy things on the shop counters are taking, mightily taking.

But flannel dresses for camping are a snare and a delusion, and this is the why of it. Everything that will stick and cling will actually freeze to flannel. Of course you know about true pitch in woods, and burs, undergrowth, pine needles and dust in the mountains, and if you are a fisher maiden, why you need a reminder of the state that comes will get into after a few hours of successful angling.

You will admit that there isn't one grain of sense in looking frumpy and tumbled, and a great deal more begrimed than is necessary. You may have the biggest heart in all the world, and the most utter unconcern of your neighbors' eyes—those most costly things—but at the same time instinctively you will feel more comfortable and more at ease with yourself if you are at least presentable, and not a sort of antique, with mementoes of every tramp taken for weeks collected on that flannel gown.

So, then, let your woollens be next to your skin, well under cover of outer garments, where in turn they will protect you (and you will need them even in summer) and where they will be protected from surface soil and all these things inevitable in camp life.

For skirts and waists select something at once strong, actually tough and light. Something that will stand rocks, tree or fence climbing, if necessary, and any amount of wear and tear and washing, while it is at the same time light in weight and fairly smooth of surface.

One of the most favored camping costumes for this season is of gray India twill, made up with an abbreviated skirt bound with leather and buttoned all the way up the left side, to be edged there with a binding of leather. This, too, has its particular merits, for when saturated by a spill in the lake, or from feeding a croak, or a sudden rainstorm it may be removed without being drawn over the head. The waist is made close fitting, adjusted with a leather belt and set off jauntily at the throat with a leather collar lined with soft silk, beneath which the little V opening allows for a hunting tie of some bright color to give tone to the gray.

The sleeves are set well up on the shoulder and fit just easily all the way to the wrist. The buttons on the costume are small wooden affairs covered with heavy lead to match the leather in color. A sailor hat, a peak cap, one of the Scotch Tams imported this year, or a London derby may be worn satisfactorily with this costume. Gloves must be guaranteed or of heavy Russia leather with one button if you cannot manage to get Danish reindeer skin, which wash beautifully in clear water and outlast a dozen pairs of Swede or ordinary leather.

You want to add a pair of porpoise, grained leather or rubber cemented hunting boots which extend to the knee in this outfit, or if they are low topped cover the legs with leather or brocade knee gaiters, which in town take the name of spats.

Every camper who is to genuinely enjoy himself should follow the wise woodsman way by accumulating herself as little as possible with unnecessary baggage.

You will need two changes of hunting boots, with a pair of the high rubber shoe and an ordinary pair of tennis shoes to wear strictly about camp. Don't take too much on pain of drenching your legs, possible snake or spider bites, poison oak and sprained ankles.

When your undergarments are accounted for go in for three union suits of gray heavy-weight woolen, being long sleeved and high necked. You will find that protection to the body in the sudden changes of life in open air, and it is better to have the necessary warmth uniformly distributed over your limbs than to carry about heavy skirts. In fact you do not want any skirts at all, other than your dress skirt, but three pairs of Turkish leggings between around and under the knee, and not made too full. Your leggings of leather are lined, and your combs give the additional covering about the waist. A tough dress jacket, short, double breasted with a cape and well lined, will protect you from night air or any spring, downy days. Slap a rubber necktie over a substantial French gaiter to your neck, and a handkerchief over the ears and take a soft pillow covered with downy French cotton or linen.

twilled Irish linen in gray or tan, and take no other linen than your handkerchiefs, which may be silk equally as well, and of which you will need a plentiful supply, hand-drying being out of the question.

Here also is a very natty mountain dress of Scotch cottage cloth in a Durham red, which is a dark, rich, brown red. The goods resemble tweed.

The skirt is quite short, the material turned up and caught down by a broad band of leather over the knees, excellent in climbing over rocky surfaces. The trimming of the waist consists in small leather buckles up the right side, leather collar buckled in front, leather belt and sleeves crisscrossed with the same, set vertically up the wrist. One of the new Scotch mountain Tams accompanies this very latest outing gown, which is suitable for deer hunting in the mountains, while the toilet of twill is excellently adapted to runways, the carries, stalking deer through the woods, partridge shooting or fishing.

These costumes are suited to variations in such materials as cheviot, cotton fabrics, in colors, ticking and, last but by no means least, Turkey red cotton cloth. If you prefer not to ring the changes on these two styles, try the Turkey red cotton, especially if you are going into the woods. It is most effective and decidedly practical.

Across picturesque McDonald lake or pond, as the woodmen call it, far in the heart of the Adirondack wilderness, fifteen miles up the St. Regis river from Brandon, a charming coterie of buds and matrons come and go, each season to and from the camp of Dr. Seward Webb on the Vanderbilt preserves. The bright scarlet in their toilets is most attractive and artistic, over the water and against the dark background of the forest.

A pretty dress for such occasions is made of the Turkey red cotton, with a mannish shirt blouse, after this year's approval, a "tail dress" bust, a little cutaway coat and the whole set off by a tan brown derby and russet leggings or hunting boots. The more mannish you are this summer the nearer you will be to the following of fashion's dictates. Indeed, you are to be so mannish that the good old curious woodmen will have more reason than ever to exclaim: "Wall, b'gosh! of that don't beat all. Them city gals 'ul be comin' inter the woods next year in trousers, sure 'n shootin'."

"Tacking you will find a serviceable material, strong and easily brushed and relieved of dust, quite stylish in broad stripes, but much heavier than the Turkey red cotton, not so inexpensive, and will not come out so well after that first thunder shower that catches you.

If you don't take a short fringed jacket, you had better go supplied with a long cape coat or full length box coat that will cover your knees at night. Even around camp fire at night, when those dear men are telling stories about everything LATEST HUNTING DRESS under the sun or stars that they have done, and chiefly what they haven't, you want your coat. Take along a woolen nightdress or two, a pair of woolen bath slippers and an old tea gown to sleep in, if you do not care to buy an English wool bathrobe or stunner robe. The latter, having hoods, are an advantage in offering protection for the head when necessary.

A good thing to pack in your kit is a large square sponge bag, such as are sold ordinarily in checked silk and rubber, containing body sponge and face sponge, with strings tied through them to hang out in the sun. A few full size Russia towels, an old pair of gloves to wear at night, a small handglass to hang up. A little box to keep your hairbrushes clean, a whisk broom, your tooth powder and other toilet articles should go in small bottles or boxes that the ants won't get into. Do not forget any of these indispensables, and rather than forget them by hurry at the eleventh hour, begin to get them together now by one into a comfortable, roomy, canvas kit that the guides won't grumble over carrying or the dampness won't permeate. But go by all means, both for health and pleasure.

CATARHAL DEAFNESS

Ringing, Cracking, Roaring and Frothing in the Ears.

On February 16, 1902, the Pe-r-u-na Drug Manufacturing company received the following letter from R. Walter Brady, Cascade, Ark:

"I take pleasure in recommending your medicines. The benefit I have derived from the use of your medicines could not be bought for any amount of money. When I was about five years old I had a long spell of typhoid fever and pneumonia. After I got well I took the running at the ears, and for fourteen years I was almost an invalid. It was so continual and so offensive that I excluded myself from all society. I could do nothing, was unfit for manual labor, and I had almost come to the conclusion that it would be better if I were dead. My father consulted several doctors. They said I had an abscess in my head. I tried several kinds of medicines, but they were of no avail, so I gave it up and thought it might be that I would outgrow it. After I had borne it for fourteen years I received a pamphlet from Dr. S. R. Hartman, entitled 'The Pills of Life.' I had given up all hope of ever being cured, but would have tried anything. I wrote Dr. Hartman to know what he would charge to take my case on the insurance. He wrote me that the remedy was simple and that I could cure myself. After using $17 worth of your remedies I found I was entirely cured. I am now as active, stout and hearty as any young man could wish to be. The world could not buy my fortune. I recommend it to all as the best medicine sold."

In recent cases, not of more than two years' duration, Pe-r-u-na, taken as directed on the bottle, will effect a cure in a few weeks or months. The cure is hastened by gradually increasing the dose recommended on the bottle to a double dose. But cases like the above, where the discharge from the ear is of long standing, and especially if it be of a fetid odor, La-cu-pi-a should be taken according to the directions on the label until the system is thoroughly cleansed, after which the Pe-r-u-na will complete the cure. There need be no failures to obtain a cure in single case. A cure is within reach of all.

A valuable pamphlet of thirty-two pages, setting forth in detail the treatment of catarrh, coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis and consumption, in every phase of the disease, will be sent free to any address by The Pe-r-u-na Drug Manufacturing company, of Columbus, O. This book should be in every household, as it contains a great deal of reliable information as to the cure and prevention of all catarrhal and kindred diseases.

Physicians
frequently state: "We know that Port Wine is the best tonic for the weak, nervous and debilitated, and for such troubles as exhaustion, weakness, sleeplessness, etc., there is no medicine to compare with it, yet we fear to prescribe it, for there are so many adulterations on the market."

There is a brand called "Royal Ruby" Port Wine, so called for its royal taste and ruby color, it is pure and old and has that fruity taste that no other wine has. Druggists sometimes urge that which they have in bulk; why? More profit of course. Royal Ruby port wine is guaranteed by the undersigned to be absolutely pure and over five years old, or money paid for it will be refunded. Quoted at 50c per bottle. Sold and guaranteed by White & White, Thum Bros. and Schmidt, leading druggists. Bottled by Royal Wine Co., Chicago.
